Update on the Iran problem!

It's time for your Brain Massage®:

[TRUTH]

The Iran problem is the current Islamist regime. That's true for the Iranian people, the U.S., Israel, the Arab nations in the region, and the world.

The problem is the Iranian regime.

The problem is not nuclear capability. Many nations have nuclear weapons, but they are not a threat. The difference is not whether or not the country Iran obtains nuclear weapons, but whether or not Iran remains under Jihadist rule. The Iran problem will persist so long as they are governed by a maniacal regime. I call them the Iranian.

We must be grateful that Mohammad's religious maniacs are too stupid to play the long game, like the secular maniacal Maoists. Perhaps we should thank God these Mullahs are not sufficiently devious as to pretend to be responsible neighbors among the nations. What if they quietly, over time, had slowly, incrementally, pursued their nuclear ambition, carrying an olive branch between their teeth, with sweet flatteries on their tongues? We would be doomed today!

If the religious Jihadi ideologues were not controlled by their father, Ishmael's, irascible, irrational character, we would be doomed today. God described it this way: "He [Ishmael] will be a wild man; his hand will be against every man, and every man's hand against him; and he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren" (Genesis 16:12). It seems likely Ishmael's characteristic raging was triggered by envy of his brother Isaac—it's called "the old hatred" (Ezekiel 25:15). An envy driven by an irrational perception that Isaac took something from him. God settled on Ishmael the lion's share of the inheritance promised to Abraham. It's true! God promised Abraham's seed would occupy all the territory from the length of the Euphrates west to the sea. Later, after Ishmael was born, God told Abraham that Isaac, and not Ishmael, would be the promised seed. And at that time, He settled on Isaac the land called Canaan, roughly defined by the length of the Jordan River, and westward to the sea.¹

What if, instead of snarling in their irrational hatred, “Death to Israel,” and “Death to America,” they carried their “sacrificial knives” hidden in their left hands, and instead of Allahu Akbar, they said “as-salamu ‘alaykum” (peace be unto you) as they took our beards in their right hand, and sweetly spoke “yay sadiqi” (my friend) in our ear as they thrust the deadly blade into our hearts? In the manner of a Jew named Joab (2 Samuel 20:8-11). Instead, like sons of Ishmael, they shook their fists, and, frothing hatefully, chanted “Death to America,” and “Death to Satan.” And, gratefully, we listened and watched as “they” infiltrated our country and our politics and positioned themselves to act on their threat. But God had mercy and raised up a Gideon.

There have been at least five starts and stops in this ongoing negotiation with Iran. It’s maddening. The nearest thing to this in history would be the negotiations for peace with Japan.²

Japan was beaten, but the government was divided between those who wanted to continue the war and those who were ready to accept defeat and declare unconditional surrender. Actually, everyone in Japan’s leadership knew they were beaten, but a significant faction within leadership wanted to go total kawasaki, or commit national hari-kari. Some in this group advised the Emperor to hope that doing so would inflict enough hurt on the U.S. to compel them to accept terms favorable to Japan. About an equal number were done with senseless loss of life and ready to throw up the white flag.³

Truman made the fateful commitment to end the war! Two Atomic Bombs were dropped on Japan. The first was at Hiroshima; it was called Little Boy. It got their attention but did not bring them to their knees. The second, called Fat Boy, was detonated over Nagasaki. That one brought the Emperor out of hiding, waving the white flag of full surrender.

Like the Japanese, the enemy we are dealing with believes their god is greater than the GOD of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, in Whom we Trust. And, like the Japanese, the Iraniacs know they have lost. And, like the Japanese, their leadership is divided between those who have a careless and calloused disregard for life, advising their “Supreme Leader” to trust “allah,” and to “die for ‘allah”” which to them is honorable, despising surrender as blasphemy. And, like Japan, they will not surrender until their spirit is broken.

I don't recommend we drop nukes on them. I do recommend we take out the regime and break their hold on that nation and its resources.

This won't happen until they are pulverized!

And the idol of their heart. The only thing that will defeat them is to break their god, and though they call Him Allah, the truth is, his name is Mammon. If Mammon forsakes them, they fall. The only thing that has brought them anywhere near accepting reasonable terms of surrender is economic collapse.

Notice that in the latest round of military action, we took out more of their Air defense systems, knocked out more of their military communications installations, hit their coastal radar and surveillance support, and hit more of their missile launch and support facilities. Want to know when the “pigs” began to squeal? When we hit their water infrastructure, and although that got their attention, do you want to know what brought them to the table begging for a deal? When Trump ordered the seizure of Kharg Island.

The little piggies came squealing! That’s the jewel of Iran—it’s the temple of their god, Mammon. Many in America think Mammon presides as the god of America—not true! They hit the World Trade Center, and not one word of complaint went up about what that did to our economy - the focus was entirely on the lives that were lost that day. The worldlings don’t understand Americans. They try to stir up distress among Americans about the “oil prices.” Memorial Day weekend showed a marked uptick in vehicle and air travel, not the depressed, grumbling, and moaning they anticipated.

And I’ll tell you something else. The MAGA American don’t like the jacked-up fuel prices, but they don’t connect that to Trump’s effort to keep America safe from crazy lunatics getting their hands on atomic weapons; they connect it to the price we are obliged to pay because of Obama’s, and Hillary’s financing, and arming these radical nut-jobs who have such a careless and calloused disregard for life they buy power for themselves with terror and the shedding of innocent blood. There is a thing in the American psyche that says, “This is wrong, and it must be made right.” We don’t succumb to injustice, and we have a keen sensitivity to it. It’s been used against us by the Demoncrats, but after a while, we see through it and initiate a major correction.

So, if it is true, as I have heard, that we have a list of Iranian leaders and their locations, use it, and get this done. Hit their god—invade his temple—take Kharge Island—do the Venezuela on them. Collapse their economy starve out the dictators, they’ll crumble before the People will. This sort of dictator sacrifices everyone around him for his comfort and service. Real leaders sacrifice their own comfort for those they serve. Dictators live in fear and are only confident when everyone around them fears them more.

But here is the sad though undeniable fact, peace with this regime is peace with the Devil. Even if we do break them into signing a “deal,” the deal is only as good as the word of those who make it. Obama’s deal with the Devil was ridiculous; yet the devils immediately began to violate its terms. When dealing with the Devil, it is foolish not to assume he is a liar, the father of lies; he is a thief, and he is violent. That’s what the Jihadist-Islamist is. It’s past what they do. It has become what they are.

Thinking about historical parallels: the Korean War was settled with what amounts to a very long ceasefire: an Armistice. Technically, North and South Korea are still at War. The negotiations that settled the Korean Peninsula into North (Kim Jung Un, with Atomic Bombs) and South (Under the nuclear umbrella of the U.S.) took two years of on-and-off talks—the infamous battle of Pork Chop Hill was fought toward the end of open hostilities between them and occurred during these peace talks!⁴ This sure is not the scenario we want.

The lesson from history that I’m trying to communicate is that when fighting an ideologically defined and motivated enemy, a decisive victory is required. We are fortunate that Japan was organized around a deified Emperor, who had at least enough love for his land and people that he did not want to expose them to a barrage of atomic bombs merely to serve his own vanity.⁵ He specifically mentioned the introduction into the war of “a new and most cruel bomb.” [IBID.] The difference with Iran is that the ruling regime is not Iranian—they have no bond with the Land, or the people. They simply don't care about Iran. So, what do they care about? Well, it's not Allah!

Iran has no Supreme Leader with any real political or military influence. The “Constitution” of Iran vests the ultimate power in the Supreme Leader, but everyone knows the IRGC is where the real power is, not the Supreme Leader, and certainly not the President. The IRGC is run by a pack of wolves.

The IRGC commands the arsenal of Iran—the Iranian Army is separate, and operates under the command and control of the IRGC. The IRGC is not organized or commissioned to protect the people of Iran; its mission is to protect the regime. The IRGC is supposed to be subordinate to the Supreme Leader, but he was killed, and not the gay Ayatollah, who, if he is alive at all, is barely able to function physically, and he is deeply disrespected by the IRGC leaders. The guy is a queer in a culture where they throw his kind off rooftops.

Something else you need to know: the IRGC has evolved way beyond a military operation. The IRGC has command over the military and all intelligence services, but over the last few decades, it has become increasingly active and influential in the political realm.⁶ After the end of the Iran-Iraq war, the Supreme Leader tasked the IRGC with rebuilding the infrastructure of Iran. The IRGC became a controlling economic “conglomerate.” Yeah, that's what analysts have called it: an economic conglomerate, running virtually all major economic centers of the country, literally owning and operating its oil business activities.⁷ Some estimates of the extent of the IRGC's control over Iran's economy exceed 50%. The IRGC claims it's somewhere closer to 10%.⁸

The IRGC has holdings in construction, oil and natural gas, petrochemicals, telecommunications, mining, banking and finance, shipping, ports and logistics, manufacturing, and import/export operations, and, according to Fortune's Jason Ma, "Iran's Islamic Revolutionary Guard controls a sprawling business empire that dominates the economy."⁹

The significance of this is huge: it means the IRGC is not economically dependent upon the government of Iran, but the reverse is true. The IRGC is organized almost identically to a Mob operation. They control the economy of Iran and use the force of arms to protect their interests.

These guys serve Mammon. Attack the "economy," and you cut them to the heart. The problem is that this means these vermin are deeply embedded in, and inextricably connected to, the country's economic well-being, so there is no way to exterminate them without hurting the economy. Trump is attempting a measured approach, increasing intensity, hoping soon to find the Nagasaki moment—minus the atomic bomb. You know what I mean. The moment the IRGC cries uncle and yields. Do you begin to understand? The IRGC commanders have too much to lose, until they don't. We need an economic "Fat Boy" to drop on their heads to break their grip on power in Iran. I think that's Kharg Island.

As for the Korean example, we cannot settle for any scenario that allows this evil regime to remain in power. We must define military superiority in terms that directly affect the regime because no amount of damage to the Iranian people matters to them. These rulers have no love for Iran as “their country.” They don’t fight for the people of the Land; they are driven by a lust for power and to protect their property —period! They are religious ideologues, yes, but it’s used to justify their covetousness. Their hearts and minds are calloused, they have no conscience, and you can only defeat them when you cripple their god. Their god is Mammon.

Trump is wisely targeting their god! Trump has said it out loud, and he intended for us to hear it. He knows, ultimately, what must be done: we’ve got to take Kharg Island.

They must lose their source of income.

I get it, and he is right. The cry will be “No blood for oil.” What needs to happen is: 1. the Arab nations, perhaps those organized under the Abraham Accords, should take counsel together and send the Iraniacs an envoy demanding that the regime stand down and grant the Iranians the inalienable right of “The Consent of the Governed.”

Many of the nations in the Abraham Accords hold at least some form of election; even Iran holds elections for candidates approved by the Guardian Council. Ha! That’s a joke! But only slightly less funny than California—Demoncrats here, and in our nation do the same thing, only it’s a bit more complicated for them. Remember Bernie, and Biden, watch Pratt and Hilton. In fact, the Iraniacs are at least open and upfront about it. Well, God is opening it up for everyone to see, and now the entire nation is looking at the dark side of politics, getting dragged out into the disinfecting light of TRUTH.

Anyway, I need to conclude this segment, and I’ll have to abbreviate my comments in the next segment. Yikes! Hey, it really is like drinking from a firehose.

The greased pig scenario: One more analogy to the challenges we face when dealing with the IRGC. Negotiating with the Iraniacs is like attempting to grab and hold a squealing, squirming, greased pig with greased hands, arms, legs, and feet. Add to this the unhappy prospect that if you do happen somehow to secure the pig, it will not deliver the hoped-for pork ribs so long as it lives. From the Iraniac perspective, surrender to the U.S. is asking the pig to tear off its own ribs, throw them on the Barbecue, then serve them to a “pig eater.” I mean, from the Iraniac perspective, they would have to assume the role of the pig in my analogy; that gives the pig a lot of motivation to resist. We have to wear them out! They cannot be allowed to relax for one second!

But with all said, and all that can be done, done: It’s as unreasonable to expect an honest deal from a dedicated Jihadist-Islamist as it is to expect the Ethiopian can change his skin, or the leopard its spots¹⁰ through negotiation. Suppose you do get a deal, suppose they sign an agreement that is ironclad, does anyone really think that they will honor their agreement? We’ll be babysitting this and dealing with their nonsense for exactly as long as that irrational, irascible, ill-mannered regime remains in power — PERIOD!

Hold on through the break! I’ll be right back!

Segment.02 Hello. Welcome back! I’m Dr. Jerry Scheidbach, pastor at the Lighthouse, your brain masseur, and Paul Revere’s lantern lighter, lighting the lamps in the church belfry arch, signaling the enemy is on the march—an enemy that would steal from us our liberty.

Here are the issues of the deal being hammered out right now between the U.S. and Iran, according to Reuters: cessation of hostilities (Hezbollah-Israel, as well as Iran-Israel, and Iran and everyone else), nuclear restrictions, inspections, reopening the Strait, and outlining the phases that must be accomplished before the U.S. eases sanctions.¹¹ This is taken from an article headlined: Iran deal very close, signing possible in coming days, US official says.

On the same day, June 12, 2026, literally two and a half hours later, the same news source reports: *Iran's Araqchi says no nuclear talks unless interim deal is implemented.*¹²

This is maddening! The nuclear issue is a solid red line for Trump. I understand what these thugs are doing; they refuse to let go of the only thing they have to force Trump to his knees in submission (meaning of the word Islam) to their demands. Their chief demand is sanctions relief. They want Trump to buy their “promise” to give up their pursuit of nuclear weapons, and deliver on their repeated overtures to our negotiators to cooperate on the enriched uranium issue. The standoff is: Iran to Trump, release our money; Trump to Iran, sign the agreement regarding the nukes thing, and perform on your promise; then we’ll talk about the sanctions relief. We need to see good faith performance on the nuclear stuff. That’s the key!

They think they are going to bribe Trump like they did Obama. (I would not be the least bit surprised to learn that Obama is coaching these devils.)

Now we know what we’ve known all along: Hezbollah is an arm of the Iranian Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC). Iran has denied this,¹³ Hezbollah has denied it,¹⁴ but we’ve all known that Iran spawned the terrorist organization, along with Hamas. As recently as June 5, 2026, in an article titled, Iran using Lebanon as bargaining chip in US talks, Lebanese President says, Reuters states flatly: “Shiite Muslim Hezbollah, founded by Iran’s Revolutionary Guards in 1982, ...”¹⁵ This is no longer in dispute. Evidence of the organic connection is exposed in the attempt by Iraniacs to connect Hezbollah to their peace negotiations with the U.S. What does this mean with regard to current negotiations?

IRGC has insisted that we connect Hezbollah in southern Lebanon to negotiations with the IRGC.¹⁶ But if Hezbollah is independent, shouldn’t they negotiate directly with Israel? Well, you see, here is the rub. Hezbollah is designated a terrorist organization by the U.S., which has embedded itself within Lebanon. (Read this article for more on Hezbollah’s “invasion” of Lebanon.¹⁷) Iran continues to insist that the Israel-Hezbollah conflict must be attached to any deal made between the U.S. and Iran. This arises, in part, from our insistence that whatever deal we make with Iran includes a cessation of “regional hostilities,” which includes hostilities between Iran and Israel, and also between Hezbollah and Israel. But, as I indicated earlier, the difference between U.S. support of Israel and Iran’s support of Hezbollah is, first, that Hezbollah is not a country; Israel is.

The country in which Hezbollah currently operates tolerates them rather than embraces them. What does this mean?

¹⁷ 1095.6.14-2026 Israel–Lebanon peace talks - Wikipedia https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/2026_Israel%E2%80%93Lebanon_peace_talks?utm_source=chatgpt.com

In the recent talks between Lebanon and Israel, moderated by the U.S., in view of the weakening of Hezbollah, and the U.S. interest in removing the Hezbollah issue and further isolate Iran by encouraging good relations between Lebanon and Israel, you know, like in the days of Israeli Kings David and Solomon (e.g., 2 Samuel 5:11; 1 Kings 5:1), Lebanon has formally and publicly rejected Hezbollah's independent authority to wage war or to speak for Lebanon. This is very important.

When I was in Lebanon for a conference, the situation I saw there, in Tyre, was ridiculous. We went through multiple checkpoints, alternating between Hezbollah-controlled sections and Lebanese-controlled sections of the same cities. We were always concerned when moving through a Hezbollah checkpoint. At least I was! Happily, we were not bothered at any of the several checkpoints. I could not understand how Hezbollah could take control of segments of the city, dividing between Hezbollah and the Lebanese army, until the “Summer of Love” riots, when I watched the partitioning of cities in Seattle and Portland. That's how this happens! Terrorist groups move into a city and arrogantly mark off several blocks, set up checkpoints, and control traffic in and out of those sections—if the government does nothing, if those charged with the duty to protect their citizens from thugs and mobs fail to act, this can become a permanent thing—as it has in Lebanon.

The Lebanese are weary of the Hezbollah gang that has moved into southern Lebanon and has taken over large portions of the communities there.

On March 2, 2026, President Aoun declared “Only the Lebanese state has authority over questions of war and peace.” Reuters quotes Aoun's response to Hezbollah's presumption to speak for the Lebanese people: “The Lebanese people are not your people.”

So, okay, if Iran insists that Hezbollah is an Iranian asset and connected to Iran, then, 1. The IRGC (Iranians) must take responsibility for all acts of Hezbollah. 2. Any actions taken by Hezbollah are to be responded to as actions of the IRGC. 3. Attacks by Hezbollah against Israel are violations of the ceasefire arrangement. 4. Israel responds to Hezbollah, and the U.S. strikes Iran in response to every breach of the ceasefire by Hezbollah.

I hope this helps! Hey, the Belfast blast is spreading fast—armed Irish groups are directly calling out the “politicians.” This is a statement from the New Republican Movement, dated November 28, 2025, about seven months ago.¹⁸ Because of the backlash over another event that occurred last year, the murder of Henry Nowak by radical muslim Vickrum Digwa, spurred by the release of the video showing the ineptness of the police in their response to this murder, is pulling Catholics and Protestants together into a modern-day crusade against Muslim immigrants.¹⁹ It has exploded into Scotland,²⁰ where hundreds of young people in Glasgow are rising up against illegal immigration, carrying Templar flags.²¹ A fire has been lit in the hearts of Patriotic Brits, Micks, and Scots that will ignite Europe.²² An immigrant from Algeria stabbed 3 little girls in Dublin.²³
